THE BIDS OPENED.

Owego Bridge Company to Build James Street Structure.

WILL COST ONLY $90,400.00

Eight Bids Submitted for the Construction of the New Bridge Which Will Span the Susquehanna River at North Towanda.

The Owego Bridge company will build the James street bridge, they being the lowest of the eight bidders for the contract. Their bid insures the construction of the bridge for $90,400, which is considered very cheap for the quality and kind of bridge the plans and specifications call for. The structure is to be completed and ready for travel by Nov. 1, 1908. The contract will be awarded in a few days.

All of the companies which bid before for the construction of the bridge the proposals being rejected by the commissioners, bid again Thursday, and the commissioners' office presented an animated scene during the period in which the proposals were opened, every concern having one or more representatives at the opening.

Following are the bids of each company:

Nelson Construction Co.	$ 96,578
A. Buchanan	111,500
Penn Bridge Co.	94,095
New Jersey Bridge Co.	93,400
Owego Bridge Co.	90,400
E. Whalen	92,000
Canton Bridge Co.	91,150
York Bridge Co.	95,300

Competent judges, and those familiar with bridge building, state that the commissioners have saved at least $10,000 by rejecting the first set of bids and readvertising. In the first bidding, the Owego Bridge company submitted a proposition to build a bridge on the James street site offering to do the work and furnish materials with the exception of the two steel girders which are owned by the county and are stored at Ulster, for $86,000. The bridge which this sum would have constructed, according to the plans and specifications, would have been but a toy compared to the bridge which must be erected for the $96,400.

By paying $86,000 and giving two spans which are valued at $14,000, the county would have paid $100,000 for the bridge had not the first set of bids been rejected. That bridge would have been 18 feet wide, of light construction with plank flooring and would have had to been used cautiously in regard to heavy loads. The plans and specifications on which the contract will be let at $96,400 call for a much heavier bridge, one that will stand any load, and built so that at any time the plank flooring can be replaced with concrete, which could not have been done on the $86,000 bridge.

The consensus of opinion among the representatives of the various bridge companies who were in Towanda Thursday, was tha tthe county is at least $10,000 ahead by the rejection of the first set of bids and the readvertising.

MONTROSE MAN NAMED.

Henry D. Jones Appointed to Succeed Secretary Stott.

Announcement has been made in Harrisburg of the appointment of Henry D. Jones of Montrose, to succeed Secretary Stott, of the board of public grounds and buildings. Mr. Jones is a clerk in the auditor-general's deparment.

Secretary Stott, who was a disappointment to the administration, when he was a witness before the capitol investigation commission, "resigned" Wednesday. His resignation takes effect on the last day of the present month.

Admits Her Crime.

Mrs. Kindra Houersto, the Dunmore woman, who murdered her husband by pouring oil over him and then setting him on fire, may save her neck by confessing her crime. She will probably plead guilty to the charge of murder and the court will fix the degree. It is thought that in view of the plea the judge would be merciful and not fix it first degree. It is a long chance, but would save the woman's life, for no man would like to condemn her to death without the backing of a verdict.

Chain Gang on the Highways.

The chain gang from the Tioga county, N. Y., jail began work on the highway in the vicinity of the Nixon farm Tuesday morning. Sixteen members were taken out, that being all the two guards can handle at one time. They are carried to and from their work in conveyances furnished by the road commissioner in whose district they are at work. There are over 30 prisoners serving time in the county jail at present, and the men will be worked in relays.—Owego Record.

Assessors' Returns to the County Commissioners Show That the Schools Have Plenty of Material to Work Upon.

There are 9,638 children in Bradford county between the ages of six and 16 years, according to the returns made to the county commissioners by the assessors.

The two sexes are nearly equally divided, there being but 24 more girls than boys. Sayre has the largest number—1,116, Towanda being second, with 750. The girls outnumber the boys in both these places. Athens comes third, and Canton fourth in the list.

GUARDING THE REPORT.

Close Watch Kept on Finding of Capitol Graft Probers.

In order that there may be no tampering with the report and other matters turned over to Governor Stuart by the capitol investigation commission, three guards have been placed on duty in room No. 402 at the capitol to watch the big safe which contains the papers. Three men will take 8-hour shifts, so that one of the men may be on duty all the time.

As soon as Attorney-General Todd returns from Maine, he will have a consultation with the other counsel engaged in the case, and decide against whom suits will be brought. Suits will probably be instituted at the September court, which begins in Harrisburg on Sept. 23. It is not thought that John E. Fox will assist in the prosecution, as he is a candidate for the vacancy on the Dauphin county bench.

Blood Poisoning Fatal.

Dr. J. W. Beck, a well known dentist of Peckville, while working in the dental offices of Dr. Jessup at Peckville, near Pittston, a few days ago, ran a small piece of brass into one of his fingers. No attention was paid to the wound at first, but it rapidly developed into a case of malignant blood poisoning and notwithstanding the efforts of five physicians he died on Thursday morning. He is survived by his wife and one son.

Spanish War Veterans.

The veterans of the late war with Spain and Phillipino insurrection are cordially invited to the soldiers' encampment at Wyalusing, Pa., Sept. 21 and 22. If unable to attend both days, come the 22d when an opportunity will be given to join the United Spanish War Veterans. Recruits should bring their discharges with them.

GRAND JURY'S WORK

SIXTEEN TRUE BILLS FOUND

Out of the Twenty-Five Cases Considered, Nine Were Ignored While the Other Sixteen Will be Decided by Another Jury.

A partial report of the work of the grand jury which has been in session since Monday noon, was filed Tuesday afternoon. Out of the 25 cases considered, there were 16 indictments and nine not true bills returned. Following is the list:

True Bills.

Charles Shulman, assault and battery; Pauline Muir, larceny and larceny by bailee, 3 cases; same, forgery; David S. Veley, larceny and receiving, 3 cases; August Rayatta, common nuisance; Frank Fraley, open lewdness; Mary Jones, disorderly house; Henrietta Razer, assault and battery; same, adultery; Arthur Munn, adultery; Tom Tumus, assault with intent to kill and aggravated assault and battery; Frank Delaney, larceny from the person, larceny and receiving; John Allen, robbery and larceny; same, assault with intent to rob and assault and battery.

Not True Bills.

Ida Cole, malicious mischief; G. B. Vancise, assault and battery; Orse Carpenter, assault and battery; Wess English, assault and battery; Archie Brink, burglary; same, larceny; same, larceny by bailee; J. S. Goodsell, larceny; John McMoon, assault and battery.

DEPOTS BURGLARIZED.

Wysox and Standing Stone Stations Entered by Thieves.

Knights of the jimmy who have been operating in this vicinity for the past ten days, extended their field Sunday night, and burglarized the Lehigh Valley stations at Wysox and Standing Stone. Nothing of value was secured at either place.

At the Wysox station a window was forced open, and after gaining admission to the building, the thieves broke open three satchels in the waiting room, rifled them, leaving the contents strewn over the floor. The ticket case was broken open, but agent W. T. Williams, states that no tickets were taken. There was no money in the cash drawer, and the burglars were poorly paid for their trouble.

The robbers used the same methods to gain an entrance to the Standing Stone station, as they employed to get into the Wysox depot, a window being pried open. Everything was rifled, but a razor and a cake of soap belonging to Agent H. L. Bush were the only articles taken, the thieves evidently having no use for tickets and timetables.

Both jobs bear the earmarks of amateurs, or tramps. Professional burglars would not stop to rob a wayside station knowing that they would find nothing of great value, to pay them for their trouble.

Serious Eye Injury.

Robert Slater of Green's Landing, while chopping wood a few days ago was struck in the right eye by a flying splinter, which penetrated the eyeball tearing an ugly wound in the corner and lodged in the iris. This allowed the aqueous humor of the eye to escape and also caused a prolapse of the iris. He was taken to the office of Dr. Tuttle, in Sayre, who removed the splinter of wood and treated the eye antiseptically. There was but slight inflammation following a remarkable recovery. The doctor was able to save the eye which now has nearly normal vision.—Sayre Times-Record.

ILL FROM FRIGHT.

An Italian Prisoner in County Jail Sees Johnson's Ghost.

JOKE WITH ALMOST FATAL END

Fellow Prisoners Play Prank on Italian, and it Required Services of Physician to Save Him From Death. —His Condition is Serious.

Michael Combourt, an Italian prisoner in the county jail, is seriously ill, as a result of a practical joke played on him by fellow prisoners Saturday night. It required the services of Dr. T. Ben Johnson to save the man from death and careful nursing will be necessary to restore him to health.

Saw Murderer Johnson's Ghost.

Combourt is the Italian recently brought back from Elmira to answer several charges in court, he being the man who smashed up a house on Lombard street one Sunday night a couple of months ago and tried to kill some American women. On his arrival at the county jail, he was assigned to the cell formerly occupied by Charles Johnson, the murderer who was recently executed in the Towanda jail yard.

Combourt was afraid to occupy the cell, and the other prisoners teased him continually, telling him that he would see Johnson's ghost some night. The Italian took the matter very seriously, and Saturday morning declared that the previous night he had been visited by the spirit of the man who died on the gallows. The prisoners treated the matter very lightly, and some of them decided to show him the real thing.

About ten o'clock Saturday night, two of the prisoners with a sheet rigged on a broom in a way to make it resemble a human form, visited Combourt's cell and found him sleeping. They held the broom up so it would appear most hideously, and then threw a stick in on the sleeping man.

Scared Into Unsciousness.

Combourt started from his cot, and seeing the "ghost" bowing to him gave one shriek and then fell to the floor unconscious. The jokers took fright at the sudden turn of affairs and called Sheriff Griffin and Turnkey Ward. They hurried into the jail and found the prisoners in an uproar and all greatly excited.

Combourt was found on the floor of his cell and to all outward appearances was dead. His heart was but faintly beating, the pulse was gone, and the end was nearing. C. B. Miller, a friend of Sheriff Griffin, who has been spending a few days with him at the jail, on learning of what had taken place, and having had some experience in nursing, volunteered to go to the man's rescue. By working Combourt's left arm the heart was revived, and by the time Dr. T. Ben Johnson arrived, he was a little better, the volunteer nurse's assistance having been what temporarily stayed the hand of death.

Dr. Johnson administered powerful stimulants and after an hour's hard work pronounced Combourt out of immediate danger. Sunday night the victim of the joke was still in a bad way, and it would not be surprising that his illness brought on by the fright, would result in his death.

He has been transfered to another cell and everything possible is being done to relieve his sufferings.

New Plant.

The Borden Condensed Milk company at Ulster, puts on a force of 16 carpenters this week and expects to have the new plant erected by Oct. 1. The main building will be 22 feet wide and 192 feet long. Several smaller buildings will be constructed. The plant wil have a capacity approximately of 50,000 pounds of milk per day and give employment to 50 persons. The product will be for the bottled milk trade. W. T. Ryan, who has been with the company for 12 years, will continue as superintendent of the new plant. He is a skiled man in this industry and a gentleman of high business ability.

Warning to Peach Growers.

State Zoologist Surface makes a warning note to peach growers. He tells them to loosen the earth about the trees and give each several buckets of water. "That will save their crops," says Surface. From various parts of the states complaints have been received that peaches are falling. Prof. Surface attributes this to the fact that the moisture goes into the leaves.

Two Candidates for Sheriff.

Two candidates have entered the field for the Republican nomination for Sheriff. John H. Dean, office deputy for Sheriff Griffin has announced himself, as has E. W. Wheeler, the well known merchant of Luthers Mills. Both of these gentlemen are well and favorably known throughout the county, and will have large followings.

LAQUIN MAN TOUCHED

BOTH MEN ARE WELL KNOWN

Boozefest at Laquin Ends in Serious Trouble For Old Offender—Victim Has Been Robbed Before—Trouble in the Jail.

Alexander Thompson, a Swede, who has been employed at Laquin is out his pay, and Thomas Mahaffey, also of Laquin, is in jail charged with touching Thompson for his wad. Mahaffey while awaiting the disposition of his case, will amuse himself nursing a sore head, put on him by Turnkey Edbert Ward, master of ceremonies at Sheriff Griffin's cool retreat on Pine street.

After being placed in the bastile Thursday afternoon, Mahaffey, who has been behind the bars on other occasions, became very abusive, yelled and called names to every one in hearing. Turnkey Ward does not stand for this kind of performance among the prisoners and Mahaffey was informed that he must keep still or go in the dungeon. This made him very angry and he started in to abuse the turnkey. A few minutes later he was piled in a heap in one corner of the dungeon, much the worse for wear and tear at the hands of the plucky prison keeper. Mr. Ward knocked the prisoner down with his fist, gave him a good slapping and then dragged him feet first into the dungeon where he will remain until he becomes more docile.

Twenty-five prisoners stood by and looked on while Turnkey Ward was chastising Mahaffey, and after he was through, he walked out in the corridor and said that if any of them had an idea that they too would like to run the jail, to step out while he had his hand in. There is not a more gentlemanly individual living than Mr. Ward, but when he is mad, he is a difficult article to get around. The prisoners hold him in the highest regard, and when they saw that he meant business none wanted to dispute with him as to who is boss of the jail.

The Robbery.

The trouble which caused Mahaffey to be incarcerated, started with a little boozefest in Laquin, he and Alexander Thompson being the principal actors. Thompson had just drew his pay amounting to $37.59 and he and Mahaffey took a few drinks together.

Thompson took a nap a short time later, and when he awoke, Mahaffey and his money were both missing. Chief Miller was notified, as was also Constable Hollon and they started out to look for Mahaffey in Towanda. They found him asleep in the Washington street Lehigh station, and before putting him under arrest had a long heart to heart talk with him.

Mahaffey claimed that he had been robbed, not only that but also assaulted in Towanda, showing a deep gash in his head where he had been struck. He was taken to Constable Hollon's office where he admitted taking $10 of Thompson's money to buy liquor with and that he had not brought back any change. He was then arraigned before 'Squire Orcutt and on the charges of robbery, receiving stolen money and larceny by bailee, was held to await the action of the grand jury. A short time later he and Turnkey Ward had their understanding as to who would do the talking in the jail.

Both Men Well Known.

Both Mahaffey and Thompson are well known in a way. The former comes from a very respectable family, his father having the distinction of being the only man in Pennsylvania to hold the office of sheriff in two counties, he having been elected in Lycoming county serving with credit one term, after which he moved to Sullivan county and was there made sheriff for one term. While sheriff of Lycoming county, Mr. Mahaffey had the unpleasant task of taking his own son, a brother of the man now confined in the Towanda jail, to the penitentiary to serve a term for shooting a man.

Thompson gains his notoriety in being the man who was robbed by a fellow named Ackley at the Towanda fair a couple of years ago. Ackly, after touching Thompson went to Wilkes-Barre where he pulled off a similar job, being captured and sent to the Eastern penitentiary where he is now serving out his seven years' sentence.

New Fuel Abandoned.

The experimental use of a new fuel made from coal dirt mixed with chemicals and moulded into egg shaped briquets, on the D. L. & W. railroad, has been abandoned pending an investigation of the complaints of the firemen who claim that the chemical parts of the fuel affect the eyes and in some instances poisoned the men at the fire boxes.

PROSPECTS ARE GOOD

Hawes-Lanna Toy Factory Will Resume Operations This Week

EMPLOYEES PAID ON SATURDAY

President Nuss of the Corporation Has Been Made Receiver and Will Operate the Big Towanda Plant—Large Orders Ahead.

Bright indeed are the prospects of the Hawes-Laana toy factory, which will resume operations in a few days, after a suspension of business extending over a period of nearly three weeks. The employees were paid Saturday afternoon, and informed that as soon as inventory could be made and other arrangements attended to the big toy manufactory would resume operations. It is hoped by the management to have the factory running by Thursday of this week at the latest. The time of starting the industry all depends on how long it will take to make inventory.

Receiver Appointed.

Dr. W. W. Nuss of Philadelphia, president of the Hawes-Laana corporation, has been made receiver, with authority to continue business and operate the big Towanda factory.

The appointing of the receiver was brought about by Attorney J. Howard Reber of Philadelphia, representing a large number of creditors as well as the company, filing a bill in equity in the common pleas court at Philadelphia, having Dr. Nuss appointed receiver with full power to continue the business. This will stop the executions threatened and enable the company to continue, fill the orders on hand, and pave the way for maintaining the business, and paying all obligations. The appointing of the receiver was done at the request of the stockholders and the majority of the creditors.

Large Orders Ahead.

Dr. Nuss states that the company has enough orders booked to keep the factory busy for six months, if not another order is received. These orders are all considered first class, at good prices and are enough to make the prospects of the concern appear encouraging at least.

Dr. Nuss returned to Philadelphia Saturday evening, and will return to Towanda on Tuesday. The work of inventorying will be commenced today. The employees are willing to return to work and do everything possible toward helping out the plant on a paying basis. As a whole the outlook for the big industry is bright, indeed.

Divorce Doings.

Helen Shea has been granted a divorce from John Shea on the grounds of desertion and cruelty. A subpoena in divorce has been awarded in the case of Della Brown vs. Clayton Brown.

OIL GUSHER AT MILAN.

Dynamite Charge Caused Break in Pipe Line.

A 200-barrel gusher, refined product, was struck by workmen of the Macafee Concrete company, not in the oil belt but in the United States pipe line, near Arthur Williams's farm, near Milan, last week.

Here's how it happened. The Macafee company is building the new state road from Athens to Milan. Friday in order to loosen up some dirt it was necessary to move, a stick of dynamite was "planted" but as subsequent developments showed, too near the pipe line

The result of the charge was to knock a hole in the line carrying refined oil, which spurted out for 75 feet. The employees of the pumping station were notified and the pumps shut down, but not until several hundred dollars of the untainted—it is not John D's. oil—product had saturated the landscape.—Athens News.

A Most Valuable Agent.

The glycerine employed in Dr. Pierce's medicines greatly enhances the medicinal properties which it extracts from native medicinal roots and holds in solution much better than alcohol would. It also possesses medicinal properties of its own, being a valuable demulcent, nutritive, antiseptic and antiferment. It adds greatly to the efficacy of the Black Cherry-bark, Bloodroot, Golden Seal root, Stone root and Queen's root, contained in "Golden Medical Discovery" in subduing chronic, or lingering coughs, bronchial, throat and lung affections, for all of which these agents are recommended by standard medical authorities.

In all cases where there is a wasting away of flesh, loss of appetite, with weak stomach, as in the early stages of consumption, there can be no doubt that glycerine acts as a valuable nutritive and aids the Golden Seal root, Stone root, Queen's root and Black Cherrybark in promoting digestion and building up the flesh and strength, controlling the cough and bringing about a healthy condition of the whole system. Of course, it must not be expected to work miracles. It will not cure consumption except in its earlier stages. It will cure very severe, obstinate, hang-on chronic coughs, bronchial and laryngeal troubles, and chronic sore throat with hoarseness. In acute coughs it is not so effective. It is in the lingering hang-on coughs, or those of long standing, even when accompanied by bleeding from lungs, that it has performed its most marvelous cures.

Prof. Finley Ellingwood, M. D., of Bennett Med. College, Chicago, says of glycerine:

"In dyspepsia it serves an excellent purpose holding a fixed quantity of the peroxide of hydrogen in solution, it is one of the best manufactured products of the present time in its action upon enfeebled, disordered stomachs, especially if there is ulceration or catarrhal gastritis (catarrhal inflammation of stomach), it is a most efficient preparation. Glycerine will relieve many cases of pyrosis (heartburn) and excessive gastric (stomach) acidity."

"Golden Medical Discovery" enriches and purifies the blood curing blotches, pimples, eruptions, scrofulous swellings and old sores, or ulcers.

Send to Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., for free booklet telling all about the native medicinal roots composing this wonderful medicine. There is no alcohol in it.

WORK OF THE GRIM REAPER.

H. L. Prince.

Hartley L. Prince of Towanda, one of the best known young men in Central Bradford county, died Sunday morning in the State hospital at Danville, where he has been receiving treatment for several months. Death was, indeed, a gentle reliever in this case. His wife and brother, Fred R. Prince, were at his bedside when dissolution took place. The body was brought to Towanda Sunday evening.

Hartley L. Prince was born 36 years ago, at the Prince homestead on Packer avenue, Towanda, the son of the late Henry A. Prince. He was educated in the public schools, and for a number of years held a responsible position with the Lehigh Valley railroad, being stationed in Sayre. Nine years ago, just when the future seemed brightest, he was stricken with paralysis, which left him paralized below the hips, and almost helpless.

With a strong will power and ever ambitious, his almost helpless condition did not dampen his energy and he again entered into the stern realities of life with all his old time enthusiasm. He formed a partnership with his father-in-law, A. R. Thompson and purchased the Ayers general store in North Towanda, assisting in the management of the business until failing health compelled him to give up. Two years ago he was a candidite for the office of county treasurer being defeated by a very small majority.

For the past year, his impared constitution gradually became weaker and a couple of months ago, occurred a general breaking down of the entire nervous system, which necessitated his removal to the state hospital for treatment.

Mr. Prince, whose life was marred and has now been blotted out just in its prime, was a young gentleman who numbered his friends by the score. Genial, whole souled and frank, no one knew him but to esteem and cherish his friendship, and while his untimely demise comes as a terrible blow to his family, yet there is consolation for them in the thought that his sufferings which he endured patiently and heroically are at an end.

He is survived by his wife and two young sons, his mother, Mrs. H. A. Prince, three brothers, Fred R. Prince, chief clerk in the county commissioners office, George Prince of Sayre, and Ronald Prince at home, and three sisters, Mrs. B. H. Harding of Towanda, Mrs. Charles Horton of Ulster, and Miss Alice Prince at home.

The funeral was held at the house on North York avenue Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, Rev. E. A. Gernant of Christ Church officiating. Interment was made in Oak Hill cemetery.

Mrs. Anna Decker.

Mrs. Anna Decker, wife of E. N. Decker, died Tuesday afternoon at the home of her daughter, Mrs. C. E. Annable, in Waverly, of a complication of diseases, cholera morbus from which she had suffered the past few days being the immediate cause of death.

Mrs. Decker was born at Standing Stone in 1846, and when less than two years old, went to Macedonia where she resided with her grandparents for a number of years. Later she moved to Towanda remaining there until eight years ago, when she went to make her home with her daughter in Waverly.

She is survived by her husband, E. N. Decker, of Waverly, one daughter, Mrs. Dr. Annable, at whose home she died, her father, John Ennis of Standing Stone, three sisters, Mrs. Charles Turner of Stonding Stone, Mrs. R. C. Webb of Pond Hill, Miss Eva Ennis at home and one brother, George Ennis of Standing Stone.

The funeral was held at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon, Rev. W. J. Hill officiating, and interment was made at Glenwood cemetery.

The news of the death of Mrs. Decker will come as a sudden grief to the many friends who despite her three years of invalidism hoped that she might again regain her health and strength. During the active years of her life she was one of the best loved women of her neighborhood, noted as a gracious hostess and a loyal friend, one whose acquaintance was a pleasure and a privilege.

Mrs. Richard Hainesworth.

Mrs. Richard Hainesworth died Wednesday at 7:45 at the family home in the Biedelman block on Bridge street, after a long illness with cancer. Deceased was about 40 years of age, and was born in Burlington township. With her husband she was a resident of Sayre for several years, moving to Towanda last Spring. Deceased was highly esteemed within a large circle of friends. The funeral will be held on Saturday, meeting at the home on Bridge street at 8 o'clock, going from there to the Luthers Mills church where services were held at 11 o'clock, interment was made in the Luthers Mills cemetery.

Miss Ella Boyd.

Miss Ella Boyd died at her home in Wyalushing township, Friday morning, after a long illness. She underwent an operation some time ago in the hopes of obtaining permanent relief from her sufferings, but without avail. She was about 50 years of age and was born in Wyalusing township, being a daughter of the late Charles Boyd. She was a member of the Presbyterian church and a lady with many friends. Surviving are one brother, J. W. Boyd, and two sisters, Anna and Margaret Boyd, all of Wyalusing township. The funeral will be held Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock, at the Boyd home.

Reuben Stone.

Reuben Stone of West LeRoy, died Friday, Aug. 9, at the home of his daughter, Mrs. C. A. Wright. Deceased was born in West LeRoy, Oct. 23, 1823. He was married to Mary Wright of East Canton, March 12, 1846, who preceded him to the life beyond Jan. 12, 1907. He spent nearly all his life on the farm where he was born. He was the second son of Mr. and Mrs. Horace Stone, and was from a family of eight sons and one daughter. One brother, C. E. Stine of Newport News, survives him. He left two sons and one daughter, J. W. Stone, Esq., Dr. J. L. Stone of Minneapolis, and Mrs. C. A. Wright of East Canton. They have lost a faithful and devoted father and wise counsellor, and the church a strong prop. He united with the Methodist chuch of West LeRoy at the age of 12 years, and has always been a faithful worker in the church.

She leaves besides her husband, three children—Mrs. Edward Phillips, Sue, and Emilie, all residing at home. The funeral services were held Wednesday at 10:30 o'clock, from her late home. Both Mr. and Mrs. Coolbaugh were well known in this vicinity, and much sympathy is felt for the bereaved ones.

John Titchen.

John Titchen, and old and highly respected citizen of Terry township, died at his home in Marshview Monday morning at 10 o'clock after a long illness with heart trouble. He was 75 years of age, and nearly all his life was spent in Terry township. Surviving him is a wife and seven children, five girls and two boys. The funeral will be held on Wednesday at 10 o'clock at the house ,and at one o'clock at the Terrytown church.

Mrs. George W. Hicks.

Mrs. George W. Hicks of Warren Center, died July 30, 1907, after a brief illness, aged nearly 81 years. She is survived by two sons and two daughters. She was an earnest Christian, quiet and unassuming, but ever faithful to duty, and as long as health permitted was always to be found in her place in church, her funeral was attended by her pastor, Rev. F. A. King.

Ruby Irene Schrader.

Ruby Irene Schrader, the four years-old daughter of O. A. Schrader, died at the family home in Towanda township Friday morning at 1 o'clock Cholera infantum was the cause of death. The funeral was held at the house Sunday afternoon at 1 o'clock; interment in the Wysox cemetery.

John W. Matthews.

Choked on a Gold Ring.

Catherine, the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Foster Wolfe of New York city, who with her mother are visiting in Towanda, met with what might have proved a very serious mishap Sunday morning. Mrs. Wolfe laid her gold ring on the table, and a few minutes later the little girl commenced to choke. The mother run her finger down the child's throat and pulled out the ring which the little girl had put in her mouth unnoticed by the rest of the family. It was a close call from death for the little one.

WORD TO THE WISE.

Professor of Agriculture Tells How to Increase Earning Power.

There are thousands of young farmers in Pennsylvania who are trying to find the best way of handling live stock and land. They are wanting to win. The wisest of these men are watching the methods of successful farmers in their neighborhoods. This is a good thing to do. In addition to these observations and their own experience they want to know the principles that control in the development of animals and of plants. When they have the principles there is less guesswork and there are fewer mistakes and failures. We have in this country tens of thousands of very successful farmers who say that they owe part of their success to the teaching of practical scientists who discovered facts that had a big cash value when carried into the field and orchard and stable.

The best way to get facts is by listening to the man who has the facts. When one can be with a man, questioning him and talking with him the true value of his facts is learned.

Our agriculture colleges have devoted much time to giving young men a full college couse. This is all right but the agricultural college receives all the money that the state appropriates for agricultural education, and it owes a duty to the ninety farmers out of every hundred who do not want to devote four years to college studies. A few years ago some of our Western agricultural colleges solved this problem. They established Winter courses of study for busy young men. The scheme was to invite these men to spend 12 weeks at the agricultural college listening to lectures on practical farm subjects. No entrance examinations should be required and the 12 weeks should be devoted to a study of things that puzzle a man in his handling of land, plants, live stock and dairy products. The young men came to these colleges in great numbers and these Winter courses have become immensely popular.

Last Winter the legislature gave funds to the School of Agriculture of The Pennsylvania State college to render this practical service to the young men of Pennsylvania. The reorganization of the school by the new dean, Dr. Thomas F. Hunt, formerly of Cornell, brought in some of the most practical, helpful scientists of other states and they become a part of the force of instructors in the five Winter courses in agriculture. These courses begin Dec. 3 and continue to Feb. 26. Any man in the state may enter so without any examination. If he is wanting facts that will help him to understand his life work he is welcome. The five courses deal with plain agriculture, horticulture, dairy husbandry, poultry and creamery. Every reader who is interested ,should address "Alva Agee State College, Pa.," for further information. Send a postal asking for details.

DEAD IN A CAR SEAT.

Aged Canton Man Dies While En Route to Hospital.

Oron Boyce, and aged Canton resident, died on a Northern Central passenger train between Ralston and Trout Run Monday morning. His body was taken to Williamsport and after the holding of an inquest at the Pennsylvania station, was taken in charge by Gage & Gage, undertakers. Mr. Boyce was on his way to the Williamsport hospital when death overtook him.

Mr. Boyce was a peddler. He was well known throughout western Bradford county. Of late years he boarded with a colored family named Hall at Canton. He had been ill, and during the heated months had become greatly enervated. At the Canton station Monday morning to friends who helped him aboard the train, he said: "I guess I'll never come back." His words were prophetical, showing that the old man felt that his vitality was at low ebb. On the train the passengers noticed his debiliated condition, gave him some water, after which he settled down in his seat in the coach.

When the train was running between Ralston and Trout Run Conductor J. W. Abbott, noticed that Boyce's head had fallen forward in an apparently uncomfortable position, stopped at the seat to speak to him, only to find that the old man was dead. His body was laid across two coach seats and taken on to Williamsport.

A message from Canton says that the belief prevails there that Boyce has no known relatives in this section of the county. He has followed the vocation of peddler throughout that section for many years, gaining but a precarious livlihood therefrom.

Died at Hospital.

Albert Hart of Owego, died at 3:45 o'clock Monday afternoon at the Robert Packer hospital from pyemia, the medical name for a condition of general poisoning of the blood. It seems that the unfortunate man's blood had acquired and retained an unusual amount of poison which circulated through his system. Finally the large abcesses developed. He was admitted to the hospital 14 days ago. He was 26 years of age.

The Judge Uses Forceful Language.

Judge W. B. Simmons of Fincastle, Va., told the reporter that L. & M. Paint was used on his residence in 1882, and held its color well for 21 years; he furthermore said that 3 years ago he was induced to use another paint and is sorry he did, because the other paint didn't make good. The Judge will now always use L. & M., because he knows if any defect exists in L. & M. Paint the house will be painted for nothing.

The L. & M. Zinc hardens the L. & M. White Lead and makes L. & M. Paint wear like iron for 10 to 15 years.

DESIRABLE CHANGE.

Registration of Births and Deaths Much Simplified.

Police Chief M. E. Miller has received a circular letter from State Health Commissioner Samuel G. Dixon, giving a synopsis of the act passed by the last session of the legislature, regarding the registration of births and deaths.

Three important changes are made in the act of May 1, 1905. Hereafter the local registrar will not be required to issue a burial permit for bodies brought from other parts of the state by common carriers, as was the case heretofore.

According to the amended act, parents, instead of the physicians, will now be held responsible for supplying the given name of the children, when the birth certificates are sent to the local registrar. The local registrars are now empowered to administer oaths, but are not allowed to receive a fee for doing so.

THROWN FROM AUTO.

Mrs. C. LaRue Munson of Williamsport, Painfully Injured.

C. LaRue Munson, Esq., and wife of Williamsport, accompanied by R. A. Mercur, Esq., of Towanda, were to have left on Saturday on an automobile trip to Portland, Maine, but the proposed tour has been indefinitely postponed owing to an accident Friday afternoon, in which Mrs. Munson received painful injuries. The accident occurred near their home at Vallamont.

Mr. and Mrs. Munson in their automobile were coming down a hill on the drive in that vicinity when it became necessary to apply the brake suddenly. The auto was stopped with such suddenness that Mrs. Munson was pitched forward over the front of the car to the ground. A small bone in one ankle was broken, and she received painful bruises, but the injuries are not serious.

A Peculiar Coincidence.

Two men living in exactly different directions received exactly similar serious injury on Saturday. The men were Willard Thompson of Laquin and Fred Manning who lives near Barton. Both men were struck in the right eye by a flying knot or piece of wood and the accident happened in each case about 6 a. m. They were taken to the office of Dr. A. H. Murray, the Sayre eye specialist. It was found upon examination that both eyes were in a serious condition. Thompson being entirely blind in injured eye. This was caused by lumorrhage in the anterior chamber but Dr. Murray thinks that with proper care the man will regain his sight.—Sayre Times-Record.

M. C. Gerould Very Ill.

Miss Lena Gerould visited her father, M. C. Gerould, who is receiving treatment in the Packer hospital at Sayre, following the amputation of three fingers which were injured in Frost's factory some time ago, and reports him being very ill. The blood poisoning which was very threatening for a time has been stayed, but Mr. Gerould is very weak, and his condition is quite serious.

SKEETER IN THE SANCTUM.

Flying Monster Captured in Review Office After Fierce Encounter.

Perhaps the largest Jersey mosquito ever seen in Northern Pennsylvania, was captured in The Review office last midnight after a hard battle. The monster gained an entrance to the news emporium through the front door which is always open for the benefit of delinquent subscribers, defied the battery of 16-inch guns which supports the infantry that defends the editorial desks, sailed out into the mechanical department and there started a fuss among the night force.

Harry Edwin Post, the night chauffeur of the linotype, loaded down with a basket of correspondence letters from the rural districts, did not hear the approach of the skeeter until the flying monster was almost upon him. Clarence William Hotalen, the official make-up, who, by the way, is an expert with a base ball bat ,having played three seasons with the second nine of Montour Falls, N. Y., realizing the danger Brother Post was in, grabbed a ball club and swatted the skeeter on the left ear, knocking the winged animal unconscientious, or something like that. With ropes the big bird was bound and gagged and is now on display in the basement. The wozzy buzzer measures an inch across the shoulders, and for a stinger was using a three-cornered file when captured, although it is suspected that this is not the regular weapon carried by the skeeter.

Unfortunate Boy.

Raymond Chamberlin, the eight years old son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Chamberlin, is indeed an unfortunate boy. Memorial day he marched with the boys and girls in the parade, and on his way home that evening, fell fracturing his left arm. Tuesday evening about 5:30 while playing he had the misfortune to fall from a fence breaking the same arm in the same place. Dr. T. Ben Johnson set the broken member.

Whalen, the Towanda contractor, who will build the piers and substructures of the James street bridge, for the Owego Bridge company, has put a force of men at work on the site making preliminary preparations for starting the construction of the piers. Lumber, gravel, and other material is being hauled to the site of the proposed bridge.

The paying of the employees of the Hawes-Laana factory on Saturday caused much rejoicing in Towanda. The resuming of operations at the big factory will be sufficient cause for further rejoicing.

The poison ivy season has arrived again. When poisoned just gather a few plaintain leaves in a dish, pour on a litle water and steep for a few minutes. When the tea cools bathe the affected parts from time to time. It can be bottled and used several days after making.

Peter Cooper Hewitt of New York, has added to former triumphs of invention a "gliding boat" which is said to be able to make a mile a minute. It has a system of inclined planes that lifts it to the top of the water when in motion, and thereby avoids the resistance of the water.

About the limit in "Sunday law" insanity is exhibited by the burgess of Wilkinsburg, Pa. He is enforcing a blue law which interdicts the driving of wagons over the streets between 9 o'clock Sunday morning and midnight. The police are ordered to arrest every person offending. The penalty is $25 fine or imprisonment.

A 20-horse power gasoline-motor grass mower is now used for cutting the 40 acres of lawn around the capitol in Washington. The machine is built on the automobile principle and mows the grass rapidly and evenly. The coming mower and reaper used by our farmers in gathering their crops of hay and grain will doubtless be operated by power generated by gasoline.

Here is a pointer for girls who may object to doing any work in the kitchen, which is given by the Bradford Era: "Girls should not be so strongly opposed to working in the kitchen. They should remember the experience of Mary Bridget Ryan, of Philadelphia. Mary B. became the wife of Dr. Cadwalader after the death of the doctor's wife. And recently when the woman died his widow, the former servant, became his sole legatee, inheriting an estate worth $500,000. She doesn't work in the kitchen now."

People often rise in the morning after a restless night, feeling more weary than on retiring the night previous. This lack of restful repose is often due to the use of a feather bed, hair mattress or some other heat retaining couch. An old fashioned tick, filled with either corn husks or clear straw, is far preferable. Even a cotton mattress is better than hair or feathers. If feathers are used in the Winter, there should be a covering as well as a bed. Lying on either hair or feathers overheats one side of the body, leaving the other side cool. This causes an unbalanced circulation and is often responsible for the colds people contract during their hours of slumber. Animals that lie on the ground to sleep meet with no such dangerous exposures to health.

Here is what Japan is hot about as sized up by a Western scribe: "We open the gates of Castle Garden and let in and welcome with open arms the scum of Europe; we coax the socialist, the anarchist, the ruffian, the thief and the murderer to come and live with us; whoever has a little money and no contagious disease can become one of us as long as he does not wear a brown skin. But the philosopher and the scholar of Japan, the wise, and the holy man, the clean and the pure of the Japanese are barred. Do you blame them for wanting to fight it out?" True as this is, how are we to get away from it? It is hard to refute a sneer as a prejudice. We Caucasians do not like the yellow or black race and can't if we tried. In turn the yellow man dislikes us. Two hates make an impassable chasm, and all the logic in the world cannot change the situation.—Lancaster Examiner.

INDUCEMENTS TO MARRY.

The movement to promote matrimony by the imposition of a heavy tax on bachelors was noted recently in The Baltimore Sun. It does not appear to have made much headway. Despite assumptions to the contrary, there are many bachelors in the United States. In every close state it is not unlikely that they hold the balance of political power. There is no doubt that they would resent at the polls any effort to tax them into matrimony. Their strength seems to be realized by the politicians, for there are no longer threats to make them choose between marriage and the confiscation of their property. But there are statesmen in various parts of the country who imagine that matrimony can be popularized by legislation. A member of the Georgia legislature proposes to regulate the cost of marriage licenses according to the age of the male party to the contract. Under the provisions of his bill:

Young men 21 years of age will be granted a license absolutely free; between 21 and 25 a fee of $1.50 shall be charged; between 30 and 40 years a fee of $2.50, and between 40 and 50 years of age at least $10 shall be charged, and between 50 and 60 years years of age a fee of $50 shall be charged. If a man waits until 60 years of age and is unmarried, no one shall have a right to issue a license at all.

The fair sex ought to rise up as one woman and rebuke all statesmen who try to legislate men into wedlock or high license must be objectionable to the ladies, for the proposed laws seem to suggest that a man will not marry except under compulsion of some kind. As to the Georgia statesman's threat to refuse a license to a man who has lived 60 years in single blessedness, there can be but one opinion. It is cruel and excessive punishment—to the ladies as well as to the sexagenarians. We expect the women of Georgia to affect the overwhelming defeat of this pernicious measure.

LEARN A TRADE.

The general tendency of parents today is to make profesional men out of their sons, although there is a great unsatisfied demand for first-class mechanics, while the clerical and profesional ranks are overflowing with men who have high ambitions but are unable to earn a livlihood, It is a noteworthy fact that every time a class graduates from high schools, the large percentage of the male graduates endeavor to become professional men. Entering a profesion, they often find the ranks overcrowded, and gradually become clerks and subordinate employes in capacities where there is no opportunity for them to better their situation. The really independent, happy man today is he who has mastered a good trade. If he is an industrious worker and is willing to live economically, he will spend his declining years in independence, free from labor. The rule, on the other hand, is that a professional man is never done working till he dies. Especially desirable these days are the trades of brick layer, carpenter, mechanical engineer, machinist, iron and steel worker. Men in these trades can earn high wages, and the hours are not long. Telegraphy is another line in which the supply of men is not nearly equal to the demand, and the wages are constantly climbing higher. In our own town the dearth of good tradesmen is very noticeable. Boys learn trades and you won't regret it. Parents, induce your sons to take some of the many trades that will enable him to, in the long run, greatly improve his condition in life.

OIL IN ROAD BUILDING.

A recent test of oils for road making in Kansas showed that the residuum from the refinery was superior to any of the crude oils, one gallon of the residuum being equal to two to four of the crude oil. In order to determine the value of this material for road making, says Country Life in America, a road bed was prepared in sandy soil. After grading it was ploughed four and one-half inches deep and harrowed. A harrow preceded and followed each application of the residuum, which was repeated until one gallon had been applied to each square yard. The surface was then smoothed and rolled. After considerable use the surface of the road became dusty and another application was made. Prof. Dickens reports that the road is perfectly satisfactory, being firm but not hard. Another stretch of road treated in the same way sustained loads weighing three tons and more during wet weather without being damaged. Not even a break in the surface occurred. Oils containing less than 30 per cent. of asphaltum are not fit for road purposes.

Secretary of the Treasury Cortelyou has decided to come to the relief of the money market and distribute government funds to aid in the movement of the crops this year. This action will meet popular approval as well as that of business men and financiers in general. Government aid to stock speculators is always to be condemned, but it is quite another matter, when the country is suffering for funds for legitimate business purposes, to have millions upon millions of idle money tied up in the government vaults, which have been taken out of circulation through customs—tariff, taxes, etc.

Canada is going to imitate the United States and issue a nickel coin. The new coin will be a penny of the value of two cents and will replace the big copper penny which is considered too bulky. The Canadian mint will, it is expected, produce from 16 to 20 million coins of varying denominations next year. Heretofore its coins to the number of 16 millions annually have been minted in England.

CAPITOL GRAFT REPORT.

The report of the Capitol Investigation commission is in the hands of Governor Stuart and a portion of it has been made public. As a result of this investigation criminal and civil proceedings are recommended against all persons concerned in the fraudulent transactions in connection with the construction and furnishing of Pennsylvania's $13,000,000 capitol. Eighteen persons are named against when such suits are recommended.

It must be conceeded by even the most critical that the commission has done its work thoroughly and well. The truth is told unsparingly and the result of the investigation is laid bare by the unanimous vote of the commission. It charges fraud, specifically, names the offenders and gives the evidence which supports the charge. It shows that in furnishing the capitol the state paid $6,434,748 for work and furnishings which was done by subcontractors for $1,574,399.

Too high commendation cannot be given to Governor Stuart, who has been one of the prime movers in securing the result. He has been true to his pledge to have the charges investigated and the wrong doing thoroughly exposed. We have every confidence that he will be true to his further pledges to have the guilty punished. All those named by the commission should be brought to trial and given their opportunity to make their defense against the grave charges resting upon them. The capitol scandal has been a stain upon the fair name of Pennsylvania and it can be wiped out only by the effective punishment of the guilty.

The Republican party of Pennsylvania, is not on the defensive. It has no part or lot with men who have betrayed the confidence of the people and robbed them. It has ordered and prosecuted a rigid investigation. It has redeemed all its pledges. And it has nominated for the office of state treasurer a gentleman whose public and private record constitutes his best recommendation. The party is united once more and will roll up an old-fashioned majority for Sheatz in Novem ber.

Major General J. P. S. Gobin, commander of the Pennsylvania division of the National Guard has asked to be placed on the retired list. General Gobin was a gallant soldier in the Civil war, and rose to the rank of brigadier general. For many years he has been a prominent figure in the political and military life of the state, and his record as a soldier and citizen is a brilliant one. He will probably be succeeded by General John Wiley, commander of the second brigade.

Soon the time will be at hand for putting into effect the Pennsylvania two-cent passenger fare maximum law. If the federal court should issue an injunction, as in the Southern states, suspending the rate while its constitutionality is being tested, it will not be necessary to call out the troops to uphold the power of the federal court.

Don't write on both sides of the paper when you send an article to a newspaper or publisher, the front side is sufficient. When written on both side the copy disturbs the equilibrium of the compositors or else he does not turn the sheets over at all in which case the rear pages go to the "devil."

State Treasurer Berry is filling his promise to pay the schools the money due them as soon as they have asked for it and presented their report. Up to date he has paid out $3,000,000 and in a short time will send out $120,000 more, making over half the $5,500,000 of the appropriation for the year in less than three months.

Some dealers are invariably out of what you ask for and offer you a substitute which they claim is just as good. This dealer is working for his own profit. Go to the honest dealer, who will sell you what you ask for and not try to sell a substitute in order to make a larger profit.

Governor Pennypacker may congratulate himself that the capitol probe commission had so poor an opinion of his business ability and gave his apparent honesty the benefit of the doubt.—Wilkes-Barre Record.

The capitol probe has been inserted good and deep by the commission. It now remains for the attorney general to twist it around and make it hurt.

MYSTERIOUS DOINGS.

Strange Maneuvers of Italians in Towanda and Vicinity.

MANY OF THEM VISIT ALFLEETO

Dominic Sharonne, the Man Who Was Acquitted of the Murder of Eugene Messenger, Helps Secure Release of Girl Prisoner.

Mysterious are the maneuvers of Italians in Towanda and vicinity just at present, and there has been more than ordinary activity among them the past week, presumably because of the sitting of the grand jury this week. Among the cases that will come before the grand jury is that of Patsey Alfleeto, the Italian who is charged with shooting two young men near the "red row" in Towanda a few weeks ago.

For some reason or other the Italians in this section are taking extraordinary interest in Alfleeto. Not only the Italians in this vicinity, but also those in adjoining towns and cities. During the past week, Italians from Elmira, Wilkes-Barre, Corning and other places have been in Towanda and have visited Alfleeto in the county jail. This would indicate that the accused man has a great number of friends or else is a member of some organization which will not desert him in his hour of trouble.

Black Hand Letters.

Shortly after the arrest of Alfleeto, it is alleged, several Italians in Towanda received threatening letters from the Black Hand society, urging them to help Alfleeto out of his difficulty. Chief Miller made an investigation of the reports that such letters had been received, but the Italians who were supposed to know, would not confirm or deny the stories.

Sharrone in Towanda.

Dominic Sharrone, the Italian who was acquitted of the murder of Eugene Messenger of Athens, at the May term of court, was in Towanda on Sunday and together with another Italian secured the release of Nettie Welch, an American girl who was serving 30 days in jail for disorderly conduct. The two Italians paid the girl's fine of $10 and she was released. Her sentence would have expired in a few days, she having already nearly served out her time.

Nettie Walsh was arrested on the night that Alfleeto was taken into custody charged with firing the shots which wounded two young men from South Towanda. She was living with May Howard in the "red row" and Alfleeto was a boarder in the Howard home. The Welsh girl was a good witness for Alfleeto at the hearing before 'Squire Meredith, and whether he securing of her release from jail the day before the grand jury commences its sessions was for a purpose remains to be seen. It may be that her release was secured in order that she might be used as a witness in the defense of Alfleeto, that she would testify more freely in his behalf if some of his countrymen would pay her fine and get her out of jail.

At present there is no doubt but what Alfleeto will be well looked after and ably defended when his case is put on trial.

EEL AND BASS KEEP COMPANY.

Two Widely Different Specimens of Fish Constantly Together.

Towandians with a hankering to see something out of the ordinary should walk out on the river bridge and witness the courtship of an eel and a large black bass.

Strange as it may seem these two widely different species of fish, for several days have been noticed in one another's company in the shallow water under the bridge. The eel swims along lazily while ever at his side, lingers a large black bass, fully 18 inches long. The two are evidently fond of one another as they have been keeping company every day this week.

That the bass is madly jealous of the other fish in that immediate vicinity is proven by his antics when some brother bass comes swimming toward sweetheart eel. A fight is started at once, and so far the eel's lover has succeeded in putting all flirts to flight. It is an unusual sight to even see an eel in the day time, but to see one out walking and even bathing with a big black bass is more unusual still.

Gypsy Outfit.

One of the dirtiest, most heathenish appearing gypsy outfits ever to drift this way, struck Towanda Saturday afternoon, having come down from Owego by the way of Sayre. Two wagons conveyed the gang, which beggars description. The women fore the genuine peek-a-boo waists, trimmed with cluny, and the kids were draped in calico. In the wagon with the children was an unkilled and uncooked pig, that is, the porker was lively enough to grunt. While in Towanda the women wanted to tell fortunes for some of the men folks, but none of the sterner sex wanted soul communion on Saturday and there was nothing doing in that line. The outfit drove off toward the South, having heard about New Albany and Dushore.

Watkins Post Meeting.

NEWS OF THE COUNTY SEAT.

THE REVIEW'S NAMESAKE.

Fred Newell of Dushore, Wries Interesting Anent Our Birthday.

Fred Newell, editor of the Dushore Review, in noting the 28th birthday of The Towanda Daily Review, tells the following true and interesting story of how this paper was christened:

"The Towanda Daily Review was 28 years old last Sunday, Aug. 11. The paper was not started on Sunday, but that was the day on which the anniversary fell. It is one of the best little dailies in all Pennsylvania, and deserves the success it has attained. In connection with this it may not be out of place to state that the Towanda Review is a namesake of this paper. Twenty-eight years ago Alfred Bingley Bowman was the editor and proprietor of the Sullivan Review. He was a thorough, old fashioned newspaper man. He knew the business from washing rollers and setting type to writing thoughtful, logical and serious editorials, while, on occasion he could descend to the humorous style of literature, and poetry was as natural to him as smoking a pipe.

In Towanda there lived a man named Stephen Alvord. He had been edior of the old Bradford Reporter. He was very much the same kind of a man as Mr. Bowman, yet very unlike. A sudden return of fortune's wheel had left Mr. Alvord at the foot of the ladder, out of business and out of money. He and Bowman were fast friends and Bowman besought him not to give up "Wake up, Steve", he said. "Start a paper and show 'em what you can do. Make it a daily and create a new field Steve took the advice and a little paper was started on the sea of journalism, and out of compliment to his friend, and in admiration of the Sullivan Review, the daily was christened the Towanda Daily Review. It's struggle was a hard one but it lived and cut its teeth, and got where it could take solid nourishment, and then its growth was rapid. This story is entirely authentic. The writer has worked for both Bowman and Alvord, knew each one intimately and loved each one dearly, with that love and admiration a boy feels for a man who is kind to him and strives to teach him, and each one has told him the story of the birth and christening of The Daily Review.

"Bing" and "Steve" have both long since passed to their reward, and neither of them needed a pocket in his shroud unless it was to hold a record of their good deeds, and we fancy that the record had been better kept by other hands than it would be by either of them.

"In the two Reviews each has a monument that has long outlived them, and probably will endure for many years to come."

SLIGHT BLAZE.

Firemen Called to North Fourth Street to Extinguish Small Fire.

The Towanda fire department was called out at noon Monday, to extinguish a fire in the rear of Dr. Henri C. Lane's barn on North Fourth street. Some supposedly dead ashes dumped near the barn, ignited some straw and spread to the side of the building.

After a hard run up the hills the companies reached the scene and a few minutes later the blaze had been extinguished. The damage was slight.

Brought Here for Interment.

The remains of the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Thornton of Corning, were brought to Towanda Friday for interment in the Wysox cemetery. The funeral was held at the the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bennett of Weston street, at 12 o'clock, noon, the Rev. H. H. Graves officiating. The bereaved parents have the sympathy of a large circle of friends in Corning and Towanda. Mrs. Thornton is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Furman of Lombard street.

Entertained at Luncheon.

"Perfection in every detail," was the criticism given concerning the luncheon given by Mrs. George H. Smalley, at "Green Gables," Monroeton, on Wednesday. Those who were guests: Mrs. Phinney, Mrs. Drake, Mrs. Fred Mingos, Mrs. Miller, Mrs. Sweet, Mrs. Musselman, Mrs. Loller, Mrs. Carl Summers, Mrs. Updyke, and Mrs. Johnson, of Cranford, N. J., and the Misses Louise, Helen, and Elizabeth Parke, Miss Bess Mingos, Miss Clara Decker, Miss Nettie Lyon, and Miss Louise Woodhouse.

Bar Association Meeting.

Monday afternoon, President Mercur of the Bradford County Bar association, formally announced to the court, the death of W. J. Young, Esq., after which a committee of the Bar association submitted a minute. Minutes were also submitted by a committee appointed by the court, upon the death of James Wood and S. W. Little, after which remarks were made by H. F. Maynard, J. N. Califf, R. A. Mercur, J. C. Ingham, I. McPherson, D. C. DeWitt and William Maxwell.

Anoher P., B. and E. Rumor.

The Troy Gazette-Register has a rumor that seems to be well founded that the work of laying steel on the P., B. and E. railroad between Canton and Powell is to be taken up in September. Equally interesting is a rumor that the conract has been awarded to a Philadelphia firm for extending the road from Cedar Ledge to Oregon Hill, 31 miles. There are extensive coal deposits at the latter point which it has been for some time thought the road was anxious to tap.

DONATION DOINGS

Good morning! Were you in attendance at the delightful little donation party on the East side lawn Wednesday afternoon? Were or was?

Phunny Phuss.

It has been several long years since Towandians with a hankering for baseball saw such a funny fuss as took place on the East Side grounds Wednesday afternoon. Regular Donation party as 'twere, with about 1200 trembling, talking, frenzied fans in attendance until after Ulster had been half an hour at bat in the first period, trailing one another around the pillow paths, after that, paregorically and swatfesticactly speaking, caslubriously meaning, there were not so many.

Towanda was walloped, not only that but harpooned, lambasted, ramsoggled, disconcerted and made to appear in the bright sunlight like a cipher with all the rims knocked off. Ulster beat, trifled with, and trimmed the county seaters 14 to 4. The reason of and the why for is very simple.

Speak of the alleged game in whispers, as there is some doubt about it and then the grand jury sits next week—call it a donation, or a farce comedy without musical numbers, anything, only don't say baseball, there are too many vacant rooms for contradiction.

Keagles' Kurious Kapers.

With Bazzette behind the lunch counter, and Keagle on the gum the party started, and just 32 minutes later three men had been retired, but not until Ulster had batted around nearly twice, seven had chased themselves over the marble, and the spectators were sick of the sizzle. Keagle hit two men in the lath, walked a pair to the first station and allowed three bingles, one a doublet. That was not enough to cause seven Ulsterites to patter over the goal, but his accomplices in the field helped make up the deficiency.

Keagle kut some kurious kapers. Mr. Keagle is a tall, distinguished looking young gentleman, with sun kissed cheeks, light hair and a frame very stalwart. He used to toss in the Inter-State league and was very oxcosox, but evidently he has lost his ability as a ball heaver—that is the opinion formed by those who saw him in action in the shooter's box yesterday.

During the half hour of horridness, there were several errors, wild throws balloon ascensions and high and lofty misplays of every kind. The seance was enough to cause serious illness. Columns, even pages could be dished up on what Towanda did not do, and what they did. All the boys had an off day, and it was not wholly one man's fault. Keagle was wild, erratic in his delivery, and the team behind him was off color. That is the explanation explanatoried.

Ryan Takes Poke at Ulster.

Ryan succeeded Keagle in the second inning, and he too, showed signs of an off day, being wild in his delivery. He kept at it however, and improved with each inning, but it was no use. Ulster had the game won in the first inning, and there were no hopes of digging out of the cellar.

Mighty Matty.

Even ill with errorfever, Towanda might have won out had it not been for Fennell, of the Elmira professional team, who was on the slab. Towanda's inability to spank the spheroid as served up by the Mighty Matthew, was the principal cause of not overtaking Ulster on the home stretch and beating them out. Fennell is a sidewheeler or lefthanded slammist, and he had all his crimps and crooks with him, too many in fact. Ulster played poor ball behind him at times but as a whole, their playing was far superior to Towanda. They won, and to them all honor is due, but there is consolation in the thought that they applied no whitewash, and in the belief that they cannot do it again.

No Postmortem.

No postmortem is to be held on the game. Some have been cruel enough to criticise the Towanda management for not having a better team. This should not be. Manager Russell has conducted the team, made of home talent, at a loss, going down in his pocket after each game to make up expenses of visiting clubs. He could not be expected to bring outside players here and pay them out of his own pocket for the sake of defeating a neighboring team. The locals have been playing good ball, and deserve great credit, as does Manager Russell for his endeavors to give Towanda an occasional taste of the great national game.

The second contest of the series has been won by Ulster, the first going to Towanda. The third game of the series will be played in Towanda next Tuesday afternoon, the game at Ulster this week having been postponed to allow Ulster to play in Elmira and Owego. Northrop will be be in the box and Connors behind the bat for Towanda, and there is apt to be some different performing than that of yesterday.

But getting back to the donation party of Wednesday, here is what really happened:

Enjoyable Dancing Party.

The dancing party in Cornell hall in the Foster block Friday night, was a success, and much enjoyed by the large number of young people present. The hall was tastefully decorated and presented a very pretty appearance. The evening was cool and pleasant for dancing, and the music furnished by Clancy's orchestra being of a high order, the affair was all that could be desired.

Mail Order Houses Undersold.

Of all the methods yet adopted to discourage mail order buying in this section is the one which Smith Brothers, the well known Towanda furniture dealers are advertising. In their space in this paper will be found an advertisement which states that they have made arrangements with a large firm and are now ready to sell goods at lower prices than people pay in buying by mail. Smith Brothers invite prospective purchasers to bring in their catalogues and they will beat the lowest prices quoted. The conditions of buying are the same as in purchasing from a catalogue house. The customer selects the article from the catalogue, pays cash in advance and takes the goods as they are delivered at the station.

Colored Picnic.

The A. M. E. Zion churches of Towanda, Athens and Waverly, held a union picnic at Ulster Thursday. A large number of colored people from each of the three towns attended. The feature of the gathering was the game of baseball between teams selected from the Towanda and Waverly congregations. Just what the score was, could not be ascertained, but Towanda was defeated. A delightful time was had by those in attendance, and the picnic was voted a grand success.

Pinched in East Towanda.

Constable Hollon arrested three drunks in East Towanda Thursday afternoon and also took into custody James Lynch of Eagles Mere, whom it was said three men were trying to rob. Lynch was intoxicated, very much so. All four were placed in the county jail to await a hearing.

CANTON IS TO HAVE SEWAGE CREMATORY.

State Board of Health Has Refused Permit to Empty Into Creek.

Canton boro will be obliged to construct a sewage crematory in the course of the next year because the state board of health has refused to renew the permit formerly held permitting the town to discharge its sewerage into Mill creek, the small stream that flows east and empties into the North branch of the Susquehanna river near Towanda. The cost of this plant will likely be at least $30,000 and perhaps more. For a number of years the sewerage of Canton has been discharging into this creek, but recenly he agents of the state board of health have made careful investigations of the surrounding country and as a result the renewal of the permit has been refused.

The discharge of the Canton sewerage into this creek poisoned the waters of the stream all the way to Towanda. It flows through LeRoy and several small towns between Canton and Towanda and the water in the impure condition is said to be a source of epidemic through that territory. The erection of the proposed plant for the disposal of the sewage of the town will be an ordous task. The expenditure of so large an amount of money will mean a hardship for Canton for some years to come. It will likely mean an issue of bonds as there will not be sufficient ready money to construct the plant.

SAW HER BABY SUFFER AND DIED FROM SHOCK.

Sad Case Developed in Scranton as Result of an Accident.

The sight of her baby daughter's dropping flesh as the result of a scald proved fatal to Mrs. David Bowen of Scranton, on Wednesday, a blood vessed bursting and causing her death.

Four years old Mary Bowen was lifting a vessel of boiling water from the kitchen stove when the vessel toppled over and scalded the child severely on the right leg. The flesh was dropping therefrom, the child falling over in a faint.

Alarmed by the baby's screams Mrs. Bowen rushed to the kitchen from the dining room. As she beheld her daughter's plight the mother fell in a swoon. When neighbors attempted restore her it was found that she was dead, a blood vessel having bursted in her head. The child will recover.

A Large Hay Crop.

Early in the season the farmers were fearful that the hay crop would be a failure says the LeRaysville Times. To those who carefully looked at the meadows it was a certainty, but the weather in June and July changed matters and the hay crop for 1907 is far above the average, both in quality and quantity. Only a few of the farmers have the crop harvested—the larger ones having only about half of it gathered. E. J. Atwood, who keeps as many head of stock as any farmer in this section, had over a hundred loads put up last week. He expects to have about 140 tons in all when finished.

HORRIBLE ACCIDENT.

Little Girl Cut Down by Knives of a Harvesting Machine.

LIMB HAD TO BE AMPUTATED.

Three Years Old Daughter of Jerry Coveny, Living Near Smithfield Perhaps Fatally Injured by Reaper—Her Father Drove the Horses.

Clasping the mangled legs of his little daughter in his hands Jerry Coveny, a farmer who resides between Smithfield and Ridgbury awaited the arrival of a physician Saturday afternoon and it was only his determined grasp that saved her life blood from flowing away.

During the afternoon Mr. Coveny was reaping grain and his little girl, only three years of age was playing in the field. While he was intently watching the team he was driving the little tot ran in front of the reaper. The arms of the machine which throw the grain toward the knives caught the little girl. She was hurled against the part of the machine that cuts the grain and in an instant the knives and riddled the flesh on her legs and cut several gashes in one of her arms.

A terrified scream attracted the attention of her father. He jumped from the machine to find his daughter with blood spurting from many gashes. Clutching her little limbs above the severed arties he hurriedly carried her to the farm house where the family resides. Then Dr. Campbell of Smithfield, was summoned and accompanied by Dr. Reynolds, he hurried to the scene of the accident. The physicians found it necessary to amputate one of the little girl's legs and it is feared she cannot recover from her terrible injuries.

Clean Sweep.

The entire staff of the Cornell infirmary at Ithaca, from matron down to scullion, has been dismissed. The new infirmary committee has made a clean sweep and as a result all sorts of sensational charges are being made in medical society and faculty circles. It is said by the committee that they wish to secure harmony and can only do it by changing the management. They assert there has been many complaints against the present force.

HUNTING LAWS CHANGED.

State Board Makes Many New Restrictions—Big Season Ahead.

Hunters, sportsmen and guides in Bradford county, and throughout Pennsylvania, are actively preparing their camping equipment, guns, and out-door impediments for the first day of October, when the game laws will permit the hunting of wild fowl and animals in this state.

Several changes of the hunting laws have been made since last year by the Board of Game Commissioners, which will put certain important restrictions on the hunter. One of them concerns the use of the automatic gun. This gun, which has been a favorite with hunters since it first came into use, will not longer be permitted in this state, and the man who wishes to enjoy himself in the woods and mountains must return to the old style repeating gun and rifle or not hunt at all, unless he wishes to take a chance with the game wardens.

Another important change, which will affect huntsmen in a way which they may not like,, is the law which prevents the killing of all deer except males with horns.

Rabbit Season Early.

The rabbit season opens this year Oct. 15, being two weeks earlier than last year.

Wild duck, brant, swan, coot, mudhen and wild goose can be caught this year from Sept. 1 to April 10. The limit of the hunting bag, which last year only permitted an individual to kill 100 wild duck in a season, has been repealed, as has the law which restrained the hunter from killing more than 10 wild geese or wild brant in a season. The law would permit a single hunter to kill more than two of these birds in one day and a strenuous kick was put up by the advocates of the sport, until the law was repealed.

These amendments have been made since last season and go into effect immediately upon the opening of this season.

Back in the mountains the old guides who have season after season conducted hunting parties and individual hunters through the mountains in search of game, are "sprucing up" in preparation for the coming days when they will once again go on the trail with their beloved old rifles slung over their backs and the gleam of the camp fire lighting up the wood at night.

Hope for a Fine Season.

According to the old hunters this season will be a good one and game is plentiful throughout the state.

The bane of the hunter's life is the game warden. A hunter's desire would have him romp through the woods at will, taking a pot-luck shot at anything and everything in sight, but this cannot be done, as in the days of yore, for at any moment the hunter is liable to be arrested for breaking the law, and Uncle Sam and his state deputies are very carefully looking after their wild possessions. Many Towandians indulge in this exciting and exhilarating sport and some of them are known all over the county as good sportsmen and expert hunters.

The laws which rule the hunter and his ready gun are many and varied, and before the shot can be taken the hunter must think about the law. As one amateur said, after returning from a trip to the mountains, "The game is there all right, but I'd see my shot and then have to get out the game book to look it up. Oh, yes, the game is there, all right, but what you're not able to shoot, you're allowed to and what you can shoot you may not."

Many Anglers.

Fishing is another sport which is becoming very popular in this section of the state and for the past few years hundreds of anglers are to be seen among the brooks and rivers in the hills and lowlands, sitting quietly for hours with a pipe and fishing rod. Sometimes the fish bite and sometimes they don't, but nevertheless the fisherman enjoys it.

MACADAM ROAD WORK

Method of Construction In Carroll Township, O.

GRADE THOROUGHLY DRAINED

Earth Excavated to One-Half the Thickness of Stone Put In—First Layer of Stone Four or Five Inches Thick. Road Roller Useful Implement.

The laws of the state of Ohio give township trustees the power to levy a tax of six mills per dollar on all taxable property, which money must be used exclusively for stone roads, writes J. L. Peters, a township trustee, in the Good Roads Magazine. We have been carrying this levy for several years to raise funds for stone roads, but as the valuation of our township is rather small and the law further provides that trustees may accept by donation either money or labor we recently gave our people an opportunity to donate—that is, we would give them two or three weeks, on some of our main roads, to raise money by donation, with the privilege of working out the amount subscribed or to pay in cash by hand or by team work—hand labor at the rate of $1.50 per day and team work at $3 per day. The rule has been that the community raising the largest donation should receive its road first. Last spring there was a contest, one raising a donation of $1,680 and the other $11,055. Some farmers on the direct line of the road subscribed as much as $300 each.

Road building with us is just in its infancy. Up to the present time we have built only three miles, but our people all want more. Although we have had clay soil to contend with, our roads give pretty good satisfaction.

In the construction of our roads we first prepare our grade or earth bed by thoroughly draining it. This we recognize as being one of the most important features for building a successful road. We next excavate the earth to one-half the thickness of the stone to be put in. Before putting in the stone, however, our subgrade is thoroughly rolled down by our ten ton roller. The first layer of stone is put in four or five inches thick, consisting of stone running from three to four inches screened to size and well rolled. This is followed by another layer of same size in like manner, also well rolled, and then just enough screenings put on to fill up all voids and bond the stone and again rolled.

The third or last layer consists of stone running in size from one to two inches put on two or three inches thick, well rolled, with only enough screenings to bond the stone and leaving the road with a smooth finish. Care is necessary where a narrow track of stone road is built to keep same above the earth road and with enough crown to allow all water to run readily to the sides or gutters. We start our grade with a crown of three or four inches, which we hold till the road is finished.

The first two miles of road built were constructed under favorable circumstances, as we had to haul the stone but one and one-half miles, and teams made seven and eight trips apiece per day. It required about 2,500 tons of stone to the mile. We have been using limestone and last year we had to pay 67 cents per ton freight on board cars at Oak Harbor. This year we were compelled to pay 80 cents per ton. The average cost of a road ten feet wide and ten inches thick would, I estimate, be about $3,200 per mile.

This year we built one of our main roads sixteen feet wide, ten inches thick in the center and five inches on the sides. This cost us $5,300 per mile, the cost, of course, depending upon the cost of material and the distance at which it has to be hauled. In this estimate labor, fuel for road roller and other expenses—the donated labor being counted the same as hired labor—are figured complete.

We own our own steam road roller, and we find this one of the most necessary implements for road building and for repairing the old roads. The work of construction is placed in charge of the township trustee. We do not employ an engineer or contractor. Bids are asked at the proper time for the crushed stone and then the contract for this is awarded to the lowest bidder. So far limestone being the most available material we have used it, and the figures I have given are based on the same.

Mr. Jogtrot—I don't want this horse. He hasn't any sense at all. Every time he sees an automobile he wants to climb a tree. Dealer—Well, that's good horse sense, it seems to me.

BUILT FOR ETERNITY.

How the Romans Constructed Their Fine Highways.

Archer B. Hurlbert in the Chautauquan says regarding the cost and methods of building the much quoted Roman roads:

"A careful estimate shows that the Romans spent from $30,000 to $100,000 per mile on their roads, yet Europe knew no road building worthy of the name from the fall of Rome, about 400 A. D., to the coming of Napoleon's Tresaguet, 1,400 years later. For a millennium and a half the roads of these men who built for eternity were the best roads in England, Europe and Asia Minor, and, though many of them quickly disappeared if neglected, a large number remain to this day, and a much larger number have served as the foundation of modern roads. One road which Bergier examined in France was raised twenty feet above the surrounding country, and a vertical incision revealed the following sections:

"Section 1. A fill of sixteen and a half feet.

"Section 2. A foot layer of flat stones and cement.

"Section 3. A foot layer of flat stones without cement.

"Section 4. A foot layer of firmly packed earth.

"Section 5. A half foot layer of small metal in hard cement.

"Section 6. A half foot layer of large metal and cement.

"The width of Roman roads varied from 120 feet at home to fifteen or twenty feet in England. The lesser width made a great reduction in original cost as well as in cost of maintenance. In the case of the narrow roads on the island the work was well done.

"'The furrows were first made,' writes W. B. Paley, 'at the proper distance apart; the earth between was dug out for a foot or two, and the bottom rammed and beaten down tightly. Upon this the first stratum of material was laid and the lime poured over it; then larger stones were placed upon that and the interstices filled in with mortar, after which sometimes came another layer similar to the bottom one. The whole was often three feet thick or more and was rounded in the center to prevent water lodging upon it.'"

GOOD ROADS FOR THE WEST.

Convict System Employed to Advantage In California.

California is rapidly coming to the front in regard to a good roads system, says the Philadelphia Ledger. Frank Lindsey, who has been demonstrating some automobile cars, relates some of his experiences while on his trip through California. He says: "I endured more hardships the year and a half I was out there than all the rest of my life. There are very few roads out of San Francisco. In fact, they are not roads, but mere passes. While the roads leading into Los Angeles are fair, they are far from being excellent. Our severest test was while touring the southern part of California through sand and over mountains. At times we were compelled to use flat bottomed boats, the rain having washed away the roads entirely.

"Now California has recovered from the earthquake the state has taken up the good roads movement that is so rapidly advancing and which in time will place our country on a par with our foreign neighbors.

"California has adopted the convict system of road building so successfully employed by other states. While touring through southern California we saw convicts at work on the improvement of roads, with their camps every few miles. The convicts work in gangs of twenty each, with an armed guard to each gang.

"California holds charms which draw large and increasing numbers of motorists each year, and now that good roads work is being done the Golden Gate State will become one of the most popular touring sections of our country."

Hardware Dealers on Good Roads.

At the annual meeting of the State Retail Hardware association, held in Syracuse, N. Y., last month, the president, Louis J. Ernst, in his annual address discussed among other subjects that of good roads. Mr. Ernst said among other things:

"A great factor in business is that of good roads, and it behooves all of us to do what we can to have as many roads throughout the state put in such condition that travel over them is possible at all seasons of the year. Good roads enable the farmer to drive to the nearest market place with ease, dispose of his produce and make his purchases. This is a matter that has received any amount of attention during the past few years and great strides have been made toward improvement. We, however, as interested merchants, should give the matter our active and moral support to the end of extending this good roads system and to see that other roads through the rural districts be improved and that they be kept in repair. In that respect there is much carelessness."

Changes In Pennsylvania Road Work.

The bill reorganizing the state highway department of Pennsylvania was signed last June by Governor Stuart, says the Good Roads Magazine. The measure provides for increasing the salary of the commissioner from $5,000 to $6,500, removing the limit of expenses to $1,000, creating the office of deputy commissioner, providing for additional clerical assistance, giving the commissioner authority to determine the kinds of roads to be built and authorizing him also to plant shade trees along state highways and include the expenditure for same in the cost of the road.

During the month of July of this year there were shipped on an average 3,000 or 4,000 boxes of celery from the great celery growing district around Kalamazoo, Mich. This amounted to about 150,000 pounds daily, and most of it was shipped by express. The growers realize 12 cents a bunch from the celery, while the shippers get 18 cents a bunch containing a dozen stalks. Two hundred and seventy-three people are this year engaged in growing celery in the vicinity of Kalamazoo, the tracts varying from one to six acres for each grower.

Were it possible to do so there is a decided advantage in turning hogs or sheep into the orchard plot during a portion of the day. Not only will the sheep consume many weeds, but both hogs and sheep will pick up the wormy and windfall apples, which are a detriment and source of contamination for the perfect fruit that remains.

The relatively low average yield of corn per acre in the state of Kansas is not due to any lack in fertility of the soil, but rather to the slipshod methods that are followed in putting in and caring for the crop. Instead of plowing their land, as is the usual custom in the older corn states, where land is higher priced, all too many Kansas farmers list their corn and follow this with two cultivations.

The question of indoor as well as outdoor help on the large farm is often most satisfactorily solved by erecting a tenant house and securing the services of a steady and reliable married man. True, he may not be quite so agile as the younger man; but, on the other hand, he does not, as a rule, want Sundays and a night or two a week off so that he can go and see his best girl, while his wife is at hand to help with the indoor work of the owner's home in case such help is needed.

A quack grass remedy that is being highly recommended by several who have tried it consists in allowing the grass and other vegetation which it may be growing with to attain a good growth, which would be about the middle of June. The field is then plowed to a depth of five or six inches, care being taken to cover all vegetation up. Buckwheat is then sowed thick, and when the field is in full blossom the whole is plowed under. The fermentation in this green manure is said to put the finishing touches on the grass.

A recent bulletin issued by the agricultural department gives an interesting sketch of the different species of hawks and owls of the United States in their relation to man. The henhawk, so called, is shown as a result of careful investigation to be a friend rather than an enemy of the farmer and poultry raiser. Ninety per cent of the food of this hawk was found to consist of injurious mammals and insects, while barely 1½ per cent was found to consist of poultry and game. One variety of hawks was found to consume as high as 200 grasshoppers daily. While a place of honor is given the much abused henhawk, the Cooper hawk, sharp shinned hawk and great horned owl are classed as wholly injurious to [illegible] of their destruction of domestic fowls and the various varieties of common birds which are highly valuable insect destroyers.

BETTER PHYSICAL CONDITION OF SOIL.

A friend of the writer who uses his own farm as a sort of experiment station stumbled on to a fact this summer that he is going to put to use next season. He plowed his oat stubble last fall. His as well as the general practice in the corn belt is to let this land lie until the latter part of April or first week in May, when it is given a thorough disking and harrowed and planted to corn. In putting in his oats on corn stubble in the early part of April it was necessary for him to cross this fall plowing frequently with disk and harrow. Instead of throwing the machine out of gear and following one same track, he set the disks to cut just a little and took a new strip, lapping half as he crossed each time. He paid no particular attention to what he had done, but disked the whole of the fall plowing at the usual time and planted his corn. The strip which he had crossed with the disk in going to the other field covered about eight rows as planted. When the corn germinated he noticed that the seed on this strip came up three days earlier than that on the rest of the field, while on July 15 it was eighteen inches higher than the rest of the field. The difference noted can only be accounted for on the basis of a superior physical condition of the soil, which brought moisture near the surface during the period of germination and allowed the air to circulate through it more freely and made it warmer from planting time on. The lay of land in the whole field is just the same, and it has received uniform treatment along the line of fertilizing. The results of this extra preparation of the soil are so marked that next year our friend proposes to give all of his fall plowing a thorough disking about the middle of April and let it lie until time to disk a second time and plant. The fact noted here is one that a good many farmers might profit by.

THE TREE BORER.

If any of our readers have set new orchards this season, there is no danger that they will have to be on the alert for more than the little white borer which hatches from the egg during the month of June, enters the tree at or just above the surface of the ground and keeps on boring until the freezes of early winter put a stop to its nefarious work. To make the search for it the most effective the grass and weeds should be kept hoed away from the tree for a distance of two or three feet. Following this a careful inspection should be made of each tree to see if the borer is at work. This is best done by taking a heavy bladed knife and scraping the earth away from the trunk to the depth of an inch, when the presence of the borer will be revealed by the discolored sawdust-like excreta which it throws out. When this evidence is discovered, the bark should be cut away carefully at the opening and the borer stabbed behind the ears. Borers of the kind described are responsible for the destruction of more young orchards than sun scald, winter killing and all other causes combined.

A LAWN PEST.

Hardly a season goes by but those who have the care of lawns are bothered with the crab grass which puts in an appearance about the middle of July and flourishes like the green bay tree during the six or seven weeks of dry and warm weather which usually follows. A feature that makes it difficult to handle is the fact that it is deep rooted and virtually drought proof, seeming to grow luxuriantly under conditions which dry the blue grass out and keep it at a standstill. Aside from a spading up of the lawn and a reseeding, which would seem advisable only in cases where the crab grass had gained a very firm foothold, we have found the best method of dealing with the pest to be keeping the lawn well watered, which will keep the lawn grass growing, and frequent and rather close cutting with the mower and a removal of the grass. It is well to remember that this grass is an annual and multiplies only by seeding. Keeping it from going to seed will therefore mean its eradication.

SHEEP AND WOOL.

Some idea of the sheep and wool industry of the country may be gained from the statistics which have been compiled for 1906. They show that during that year there were 38,540,798 sheep in the country, which produced 256,015,130 pounds of wool, which made the average weight of fleece 6.667 pounds. This was a gain of one-tenth of a pound per fleece over the clip of the previous year. Montana heads the list with 4,940,000 sheep, which yielded 35,815,000 pounds of wool valued at $8,523,970. Wyoming, New Mexico and Idaho rank next as sheep and wool producing states in the order mentioned.

THE SCHOOL FIRST.

In spite of the fact that it is not always dwelt upon by real estate agents as much as might be, there is no feature of a country in which one proposes to locate permanently that ought to receive greater emphasis or more careful investigation than the school advantages which are available. Where such privileges do not exist and there is little prospect that there will be material improvement the home seeker who values the real welfare of his children should be slow to locate. If a new location is all right in every other particular, but fails in this, it falls far short of being what it ought to be.

A flock of 200 sheep would be sufficient to keep the highways bordering on and intersecting a section of land pretty closely cropped and free from weeds, which would thus be prevented from befouling the adjoining fields. They would not only render this service, but could be turned into the stubble fields as soon as the grain was stacked, and their service here would be of the same valuable kind.

The farmers of Michigan during the year 1906 raised more than 5,000,000 bushels of beans, from which they realized between $8,000,000 and $10,000,000. One commendable feature about the raising of this crop was that the growing of it left the land richer as a result.

It is well to remember that, as a rule, the fewer the flowers which are allowed to bloom on many of the garden plants the larger and more attractive they will be. This applies particularly to roses, carnations, asters and chrysanthemums. The loss in quantity of flowers is more than compensated for by the increase in size and quality.

Where the lawn has not been given a dressing of fertilizer in the spring and the summer season or a portion of it is dry it is best not to remove the grass cuttings. Not only does the grass left on furnish a mulch and tend to keep the roots of the grass moist, but it also means a return to the soil of a certain amount of fertilizing material.

The spraying which the orchardist gives his trees about the first of August is for the purpose of heading off the work of the second brood of codling moths which lay their eggs on the half grown fruit. When this treatment is not given, apples that would otherwise be perfect and classed as extra fancy are bored full of little holes and damaged to that extent.

That system of feeding is not entirely to be commended in which large amounts of condimental stock foods are needed to supplement the ration fed. Farm animals should not be required to eat stock foods to get all the salt they need, yet this is one of the chief ingredients that manufacturers of such foods rely upon to give their foods the desired relish.

Cement is coming more and more into use for the improvements and structures that have for generations past been built of wood. With the present prevailing high prices of lumber it costs but little if any more to build a walk, barn, tank or silo of cement than of wood, while in point of durability and satisfaction during its period of service it is far superior to wood.

Contrary to an idea which may to some extent prevail, most of the common weeds contain as large a per cent of protein as the farm crops usually raised and if taken from the land mean the removal of that much fertility. Tests which have been recently made show that purslane contains in dry form 26.13 per cent of protein, pigweed 26.54 per cent and cheese mallow 24.64 per cent.

THERE WILL BE LIGHT

Electric Illuminating Co. Agreeable to Council's Proposition.

LANTERN DAYS END SEPT. 1.

Contract Not Yet Entered Into But Will Be in a Few Days—Light Company Has Ordered the Series Lamps for the New System.

Lantern days in Towanda will end on Sept. 1. This is not a certainty but a probability.

The Towanda Electric Illuminating company is agreeable to the borough council's proposition to light the residence section with 50 candle power series lamps and Main street, including a route to the upper station with arc lamps. A contract has not yet been entered into, but will be in a few days.

E. L. Smith, manager of the illuminating company, states that the series lamps have been ordered and are expetced within a few days. As soon as they arrive the work of placing them will be commenced, and it is expected that the new system of lights will be ready for use the first of next month. The series lights will hang from the holders used for the arc lights, and will be fed from the same circuit.

SCHOOLMA'AMS PLENTY IN RURAL DISTRICTS.

Higher Wages Have Brought Plenty of Applicants for Jobs.

For the first time in the history of the county various schools throughout the farming districts have been supplied with competent school ma'ams.

Previous years at this time of the season at least twenty schools in the rural districts of Bradford county were minus teachers and as a consequence in many of the remoter places the children suffered. The promising condition of affairs at present has been brought about by the increased salaries of the pedagogues and before the first of next month every school, including those in the remote districts wil be supplied with teachers.

Buildings that have not been occupied for years are being renovated for the opening term and while the farmers are not reaping a golden harvest in the way of crops this year they are rejoicing over the fact that their children will at least be educated.

More County Bridges.

In the county papers this week, the Commissioners are advertising for bids for the building of two more bridges. One is to be built in Troy boro over Sugar Creek, and the other is to be built over Sugar Creek between Troy and West Burlington. Two plans are on file for the last named, one calling for steel and the other for concrete, bids are being asked for both kinds. Bids will be received until 2 p. m., on August 29. On that day and at the same hour bids will be opened for the furnishing and erecting steel floor joists, bolts, spikes, etc., straightening of one chord bar, and laying of the floor plank furnished by county for bridge across Tuscarora creek, about three miles from Laceyville.

State Roads in Sullivan County.

Surveyors are at work at Lopez laying out the state road that is to be built from Lopez creek to the Cherry township line. In other words this starts at the county bridge over Lopez creek, at Dr. Christian's office and ends at Murraytown. An appropriation of $11,000 is available for this purpose next Spring, and the present work is simply preliminary. This should, and probably will, in time be extended form Murraytown to a junction with the state road beginning at the company store at Bernice, and extending for seven thousand feet, through Mildred and ending at the top of Sugar Hill.—Dushore Review.

County's Champion Liar.

A champion liar in Bradford county makes a complaint of losing a cherry tree growing in his garden. Cherries are not plentiful this year and the birds were robbing him. So, catching up his double-barreled shotgun, he hastily loaded it, but finding he had no shot, he substituted tacks. He fired both barrels and succeeded in tacking every bird fast to the tree, but there were so many of them they flew away with it.—Sayre Times-Record. The outfit was noticed passing over Towanda late last night, probably enroute to New Albany or Dushore.

New Editor of Sayre Times-Record.

Andrew J. Cotton, formerly Sayre editor of the Athens Evening News, is now city editor of the Sayre Times-Record, having commenced his duties Monday morning. THIEVES IN TOWANDA

Home of M. Kaufman, the Clothier, Entered Sunday Morning.

$100 WORTH OF BOOTY TAKEN.

Burglars Effect Entrance by Cutting Window Screen—$75 Diamond Stud, Gold Watch, Ring, Knife and Some Change Stolen.

The first house burglary in Towanda in a long while took place Sunday morning, when the Poplar street home of M. Kaufman, the clothier, was entered by thieves and jewelry valued at over $100, was taken.

The Kaufman family consists of the parents and three children. Mr. and Mrs. Kaufman occupy sleeping apartments on the lower floor. David E. Kaufman, Esq., Joseph Kaufman and Miss Pauline Kaufman, the other members of the family occupy rooms on the second floor. At midnight Saturday, the family had retired and the entrances to the house were all securely fastened.

Sunday morning Mrs. Kaufman arose, and on going into the hall was surprised to find the front door partly open, with a pair of trousers and a shirt laying in the doorwoy. Examination showed that the wearing apparel belonged to Mr. Kaufman, and that the pockets had been rifled.

The bosom of the shirt had been cut so as to allow the removal of a diamond stud valued at $75. Further investigation showed that Mr. Kaufman's gold watch and chain valued at $25, and a monogram gold ring were gone from the dresser where they had been left by the owner Saturday night.

In the pockets of the trousers had been left 45 cents. The thief took 35 of the amount, leaving a dime. A pen knife was also taken. A thorough examination of the house showed that the thief had only been on the lower floor, having evidently been well satisfied with getting away with the diamond, watch, chain, knife and change.

Police Investigate.

Chief Miller was notified soon after the discovery of the burglary, as was Detective Hollon, and they made a thorough investigation. They found that entrance had been effected by slitting a misquito netting which covered a window frame on the first floor. After getting into the house, the thief went through the rooms down stairs, took the watch from the dresser, picked up Mr. Kaufman's trousers and shirt and went to the front door where the job was completed. From the marks on the bosom of the shirt, the thief made a desperate effort to hurriedly remove the diamond stud, and being unsuccessful, took the knife from the trousers and cut the shirt bosom to allow the removal of the pin.

The Kaufman house is equipped with electric burglar alarm, but as far as is known, the system did not work, and as a result the thief carried on his pilfering without disturbing the sleeping family.

Thieves Abroad.

It has been learned that during the past two weeks, a number of Towanda residences have been entered by burglars, but so far as can be learned, M. Kaufman is the only one that has lost anything by their visitations. Mrs. Williams of Poplar street the other night, found a man in her house, who ran out when discovered. She went to pull down the blinds a few minutes later and was startled to see a man in the yard peeping in. Two screens were cut from the windows of the residence of Mr. Cox of Charles street the other night, but the theives failed to gain an entrance. Ed. Barrett's house on Bridge street was also visited. Mr. and Mrs. B. T. Hale on returning to their South Main street home the other evening, discovered that some one was in the house. Mr. Hale started around the back way and saw a man run out of the side door.

Summer Will Soon Be Over.

Ten weeks of Summer have passed and within a few weeks the frost will be on the pumpkin and the fodder in the shock; then will quickly follow the change in the foliage from green to crimson and yellow, then the fall of the leaf, and a little later the lawn mower will be stowed away and the snow shovel will take its place for another eight months. The late Spring will make the present Summer seem like a very short one.

SKIN ERUPTIONS.

Many persons are much annoyed by prickly heat, hives, boils and other skin eruptions, often attended by painful itching and burning, and sometimes becoming obstinate and unsightly sores. Corpulent people are especially subject to these maddening inflections all caused by impure blood. Scrofula, Cancer and all other skin diseases arise from an impure state of the blood.

BLACK HAND AGENT OR VICTIM?

ANOTHER ITALIAN SLASHING AFFRAY.

Dominic Bucaforo of Sayre, Frightfully Wounded by Fellow Countryman in Towanda.

With Blood gushing from four horrible gashes, Dominic Bucaforo, an Italian from Sayre, staggered into the Arcade grocery about 9 o'clock Thursday night, and told P. Gori, the proprietor he had been slashed and wounded by a fellow countryman on Packer avenue near the upper station.

Bucaforo presented a horrible spectacle as he entered the store. His clothes were literally soaked with blood, and his shoes were bespattered as if he had been at a butchering.

Realizing that the man was badly wounded and needed prompt attention, Mr. Gori phoned for a doctor and the officers. Chief Miller hurried to the Arcade and Bucaforo was brought to the office of Dr. T .Ben Johnson where an examination was made. Four terrible knife wounds were found on his head and body. A deep gash starting in the right temple extended down across the right cheek, bringing up under the chin after slitting the side of the neck. A deep cut six inches long was found gaping open on the right breast, as if the knife or weapon had been brought down across the face and neck and ending on the breast. There was also a bad cut on the left temple, extending over the left eye, and also a cut near the left ear. Dr. Johnson dressed the wounds temporarily. Bucaforo was taken to the Packer hospital on train No. 3 Friday morning. His condition is serious.

STORY OF THE SLASHING.

The slashing and wounding of Bucaforo was one of the most sensational occurrences to transpire in Towanda in a long time. At first the circumstances and the mum attitude assumed by the wounded man toward the officers, left the impression that he was a victim of the Black Hand, but later developments have a tendency to dispel that idea.

Bucaforo was a resident of Towanda for several months, being employed on the Lehigh improvements. He boarded on Kingsbury avenue at that time and was a frequent visitor at the other Italian homes in Toytown. Last March he went to Sayre, and secured employment, being one of the force of men working on the sewer extension in that village. Thursday evening he came to Towanda on the shop train, arriving at the upper station about 7 o'clock.

He went to his former boarding house on Kinsgbury avenue and had supper. Just before 8 o'clock, he left that house and went over on Packer avenue to call upon the Italians who occupy the Walbridge house next to the Lehigh bus bridge.

ATTACKED BY YOUNG ITALIAN.

According to Bucaforo, he started to go into the Walbridge house, and just before reaching the front porch, a young Italian came out, walked by him, turned around came back, and before Bucaforo realized what was happening, the young man was slashing him with a razor. He tried to defend himself, but the blows were rained upon him so fast that it was impossible. Evidently believing he had inflicted fatal wounds, Bucaforo's assailant fled toward the railroad. Covered with blood Bucaforo started down town.

WEAK FROM LOSS OF BLOOD.

The walk of nearly a mile from the scene of the attack to the Arcade, with blood gushing from the wounds at every step caused Bucaforo to be quite weak when he reached Gori's grocery.

REFUSED TO TELL.

The wounded man, when first questioned as to who slashed him, would only shrug his shoulders and say "me don't know." He took his wounds as a matter of fact, and seemed to be perfectly at ease while reclining on the operating table in the doctor's office. After his injuries had been dressed, he was taken to the council rooms and closely questioned by Mr. Gori, acting as interpreter for Chief Miller. He talked very freely and said that he would know the man who cut him if he saw him. He denied that he had ever had any trouble with the boarders at the Walbridge house and said that he did not know the man's name who attacked him. He said that he had not been drinking and didn't believe the man who cut him was drunk.

POLICE MAKE INVESTIGATIONS.

Encouraged by the description of the slasher which Bucaforo furnished, Chief Miller and Mr. Gori, together with Bucaforo, went to the upper station in a hack, to try and locate the man who did the cutting.

Chief Miller visited the Walbridge house about 11:30 and made a thorough investigation. They found that a baby was being christened and a high old time had been in progress earlier in the evening, but none of the inmates knew anything about Bucaforo or how he came to be wounded.

BUCAFORO WAS PEEPING.

At the depot, by constant questioning, Bucaforo admitted that he was peeping in on the festivities at the Walbridge house, and that he was near the back door when a young man inside wearing a white hat, changed it to a black one, rushed out followed by the woman of the house, and attacked him. The woman declared to the police that neither she or any one else had left the house, and had not seen Bucaforo.

Completely baffled, and with Bucaforo unable to talk any more, he was left at the depot with the station agent, who put him aboard train No. 3, and sent him to the Packer hospital.

Bucafor is a man about 45 years of age, and has a son who is a tailor in Athens. His injuries are of a very serious nature, and may prove fatal. Who inflicted the terrible wounds, will probably remain a mystery as the Italians are inclined to shield the slasher.

Ill With Appendicitis.

Walter English, the 17 years old son of James English of South Branch, who has been ill with appendicitis since last Wednesday, was on Sunday afternoon sent to the Packer hospital at Sayre by Dr. O. H. Rockwell of Monroeton.

Ulster Whitewashed.

The Ulster baseball team was whitewashed in Elmira Wednesday by the score of 5-0. The Ulsterites were unable to connect with the Elmira pitcher, and while they put up a stiff fight, it was no use, Elmira was too strong.

MYSTERY DEEPENS

Police Baffled Over Slashing of Dominic Bucaforo.

LOCAL ITALIANS FEAR MAFIA.

Letters Have Been Received in Towanda From Dreaded Society of Murderers and Much Alarm is Felt —Why Was Bucaforo Attacked?

Was Dominic Bucaforo, the Italian who was terribly wounded by another Italian in Towanda Thursday evening an agent for or victim of the "Black Hand?"

Did he come to Towanda from Sayre for the express purpose of killing or injuring a fellow countryman, or was he the marked victim of the dreaded society of murderers?

These two questions are bothering the Towanda police, and so far the guardians of the law are completely baffled as to why and by whom Bucaforo was attacked. Local Italians are in fear of the Mafia, several of them, it is understood, having received letters from the organization which signs its documents and seals them with the emblem of the "Black Hand."

Later Developments.

Chief Miller has made further investigation of the slashing of Bucaforo and while he spent a good share of Friday at the task, his work was for naught, practically, as the Italians who knew the circumstances surrounding the affray, refuse to talk or tell anything which would throw any light on the matter, and as a result the mystery is deepening.

The chief learned, however that Bucaforo was marked for injury before he reached the Walbridge house. An Italian boy, a bright little fellow who by the way, speaks English very fluently was heard to say a little while before the slashing, "there is the man who set our house on fire, and he is going to get hurt tonight." The man alluded to by the boy was Bucaforo and half an hour later he had been attacked and badly injured.

May Have Been Incendiary.

This circumstance leads the police to believe that Bucaforo may have been the man who set the Walbridge house on fire a couple of months ago, which nearly resulted in the cremation of a number of Italians and the boarding mistress and her children. Bucaforo may have been attacked out of revenge for having applied the match. Then again Bucaforo as agent of the "Black Hand," might have attempted to burn the house and wipe out some enemy, and in failing decided to come back and make another effort, with the result that he was wounded before being able to accomplish his mission. In his pocket he caried a razor, and he admitted he was peeping in the window when discovered by the inmates of the house. He could not or would not explain why he came to Towanda Thursday evening.

Peculiar Features.

The affair abounds in peculiar features. Bucaforo bought a return ticket at Sayre, and when searched at the upper station the return stub could not be found. He had no money with which to pay his fare back to Sayre, and when the fact became known, the woman who lives in the Walbridge house came forward and offered him 75 cents.

With his eyes blazing with fire, and his whole frame quivering with hatred, he looked at the woman and in scornful tones said in his native tongue "I don't want your money. I'll lay here and die before I will pay my fare to the hospital with money from your hand." The woman made no reply, but turned and walked away. The police believe she knows who slashed Bucaforo and what it was done for.

This woman has a little boy about eight years of age, and he being able to speak both English and Italian, Chief Miller questioned him closely in regard to the wounding of Bucaforo. Every question the Chief asked, the lad repeated in Italian to his mother and a man who would say something to him before he would reply. The chief tried to intimidate the boy into answering direct, but he would not, and repeated every question to his mother before an answer was made.

In deepest mystery the whole affair is shrouded, and bids fair to remain so. Bucaforo knows why he was attacked and by whom, but as long as he will not tell, he must bear his sufferings and fight against death from his wounds knowing that his assailant goes unpunished.

A Hair Dressing

Nearly every one likes a fine hair dressing. Something to make the hair more manageable; to keep it from being too rough, or from splitting at the ends. Something, too, that will feed the hair at the same time, a regular hair-food. Well-fed hair will be strong, and will remain where it belongs—on the head, not on the comb!
